sitting." With tongue in cheek, Mrs. Edie Eteimetz of "Doves" suggested that "starting in February, I will need dependable professional egg-sitters" to help meet the hearty demands of St. Valentine's Day and June weddings.

LOOKING TO Saturday's Homecoming deadline, Miss Anderson is prepared in any event—blessed or otherwise. "We're getting an armored car," she says, "and either the egg or an ostrich will ride in that Homecoming Day parade!"

Saxons Plan Events

North High students will welcome alumni of the school Friday for a football game and dance. The occasion is North's 11th annual homecoming.

Alumni tickets for the semi-formal dance, to be held in the school cafeteria following Friday's football game, are $2 per couple. Tickets may be purchased in the student activities office this week.

Saxon students with a student body card may purchase dance tickets for $1.75 per couple. Music for the dance will be provided by the Majestics dance band.
The dance is scheduled to begin about 9:30 p.m.

ON COMMISSION
Mrs. Theodore McLane of 237 Linda Vista was appointed to the City's Youth Welfare Commission last night. Mrs. McLane was appointed by Councilman H. Ted Olson.

... Council

pay hike included the Torrance executive council of the Victoria Terrace Homeowners Association, and the Torrance Police Officers Association.

OPPOSITION to the proposed increase was expressed by Board of Education member Bert M. Lynn. In a letter to the council, Lynn said "the token $100 payment plus a tax free unlimited travel and expense account is ample in our city manager form of government."
"Let's lower taxes as our tax base increases," Lynn added.

In another reference to the travel which councilmen do on behalf of the city, Robert Irwin told the city fathers he favored an increase "if you stay home, or at least in California."

POLLED on the time which they spend on city business, all seven city fathers agreed they spend about a third to a half of their time in civic affairs, some times at the expense of other employment.

"The people on the council would do the same job whether you pay them or not," Councilman David K. Lyman said. "But," he continued, "that is a small part of what the public wants. They want someone they can call. This is where consideration should be given."

William Bordeaux of 23818 Anza Ave. told the council he wanted qualified men on the council. "I must pay a qualified price," he added.

Jack Schmidt, a member of the city's Planning Commission, told the city fathers he favored "whatever you think is necessary."

CITY MANAGER Edward J. Ferraro presented a report which his office had completed on the subject.

"Those citizens who sit on the sidelines and Monday morning quarterbacks and kibitzers should follow a councilman for a month to observe the demands on his time," Ferraro said.

"Councilmen are walking suggestion and complaint boxes and must bear with patience the continuing requests of people whose desires, if granted, would unbalance the overall program of community services," he continued.

Ferraro said the basic question is how much to pay, not whether to pay.

INSURANCE SESSION
Torrance Unified School District will be represented at a school insurance workshop in Los Angeles Nov. 19 by Dr. Bernard Garen, supervisor of educational facilities. The workshop is sponsored by the California Association of Public School Business Officials.

'The Torch-Bearers' Opens Here Friday

Ladies who've often wanted to see the inside of a men's locker room will get their chance Friday evening, but what they see won't look much like a locker room. The locker room is at the municipal swimming pool, but it has been transformed with chairs and scenery for the Footlight Theatre production of "The Torch-Bearers," opening Friday.
Curtain time is 8:30 p.m. for the first of six performances spanning three weekends.
Director Carol Hauser has assembled a cast which includes Buzz Hoffman, T. J. Burdge.

Busch, Henry Salomon, Ron Scarlata, Doug Pasmore, Jack Duggan, Mary Margaret Lewis, Connie Hauser, Irene Conry, Linda Kraegel, Barbara Nybatten, and Elaine Burdge.

"The Torch-Bearers" is a family comedy which tells the story of a housewife who gets a chance to prove she could have been a great actress.
